The Effect of Prohibition in Clayton County— Heavy Wind Storm in Haralson County— The Waynesboro Artesian Well-Re-covery of Stolen Money-Bite.

Something over a year ago, says the Jonesb News, Clay county adopted the prohibition law, and she has never had cause to regret that wise step. The merchants declared, last fall, that trade was ten per cent better than any previous fall, and that collections were from thirty to fifty per cent better. The "calaboose" has been advertis ed for sale, and the tow n marshal has no trouble at all. The sheriff says that it has ruined his busi ness. There has been no new cases of importance added to the court docket. The moral tone of Jonesboro and county is in every way healthier than ever before. In fact, prohibition is a grand and glorious move in behalf of humanity.

Albany Medium: Last week we published an account of the robbery of Mr. Elbert Fletcher's residence, in livin country, of 57,000 in money and other valuables. Later information brings the intelligence that he has been so fortunate as to recover the trunk containing all the money and other valuables. It seems he had a negro employed on his place, and that this negro, while the family were at supper, took the trunk from the house, carried it a short distance into the woods and secreted it. He then returned to the house and perhaps engaged in the clouds gathered and a steady rain began to sareh for it. Next morning a negro loy, who also lived on the place, and who witnessed the extraction of the trunk, informed Mr. Fletcher of the transaction, and he soon had the trunk in his possession. Rumor says that the thief received one hundred and seventy-five lashes for his part of the work, and would have received more had he not then shown strong surface indications of shuffling off this mortal coil.

ATHENS, Ga., July 14.- [Special.]-The 109th ent of the State university has opened under the most favorable circumstances, and promises to be one of the gayest, for many years past. There is a noticeable number of visitors present from all parts of the state. Savannah is well represented. Augusta, until recently the chief patinstant. This statement is incorrect. We would be probably more of her citizens here than for many years past. Columbus, with a half score of bright boys attending, has sent her people here to see them off, and the general combine sister cities with numberless delegations from smaller towns and country homes in the state, makes Athens now the scene of gayety and pleasure for which it has been annually noted, now Marietta, Friday night, of what was thought to be for almost a century.

There is, however, one fact connected with this commencement which is at once noted by those who have attended heretofore and who new being here, miss the genial and brilliant mind of grand old Bob Toombs, in the annual council of the trustees, and the historic and loved form of his friend and companion, Alexander Stephens.

der Stephens.

Burdened with the cares of state and nursing still the cause of his alma mater, the troubled body of the latter was relieved and he was called away even before the last commencement, but Toombs, grand old Toombs, is absent to-day for the first time in many years. I heard him remark as he sat on the campus last year and commented on the absence of Stephens: "He is easier now, but it seems strange not to have him here." Toombs is now at his Washington home, growing agred and spending quietly the closing years of his eventful life. His absence is commented upon, his unanly form missed, and it seems strange indeed to see his vacant chair in the trustees' hall. In this alone does this commencement differ materially from those preceding it, but when one looks back so few years and sees the nater lattro, Toombs, Stephens and Hill, standing side by side on the old campus, in active discussion of pending measures or intently recalling past occurrences, there is a sadness in the thought that the former now demands that rest from service which his declining years assert as being necessary, and that the latter two have already done that work so grandly planned for them.

A report was submitted to-day to the trustees stating that twenty-three students would be sup-ported this year on the interest of the fund, fifteen at Athens and eight at Dahlonega. This will continually increase its number yearly and will be productive of great good.

LEE ON SOCIETY.

Religion Not a Mere Matter of Faith, but Must Show Itself in Works. ROME, GA., July 14.—[Special.]—At the city hall unday night, Rev. J. W. Lee, of the Methodist church, preached on "Society" to an unusually arge congregation. He said that as a general rule large congregation. He said that as a general rule individuals did not rise above the social, moral and intellectual level of the community in which they lived. Therefore it behooved each individual to labor for the benefit of the community. Religion is not a mere matter of faith. It must be accompanied by good works. Health, cleanliness, are also vitally important. There can be no true religion where filth and squalor prevail. It is the duty of a truly religious man to take an interest in all that pertains to the welfare of the community. While he should not be a partisan, he should take an interest in politics and see that good men are elected to office. He should always act honorably in his business. A dishonest dollar in his pocket will follow him to the grave and beyond it. There can be no repentance without restitution. The murdeter who deliberately takes the life of a fellow being may be able to reach he.ven, but his chances are very small. The gallows is a poor passportto eternal bilss. In conclusion, the preacher exhorted his hearers to live a life of purity, of virtue, of honesty; to help the poor, relieve the distressed, console the afflicted, educate the ignorant and pour into bleeding hearts the balm of love and sympathy.

The sermon was a strong one, and is calculated to do much good. individuals did not rise above the social, moral

At an heavy rainfall which visited our town. At an early hour the throng of people began to arrive and by 10 o'clock the streets were chockfull of busy, bustling and hungry humanity. About that a "damper" was put on the day's prospects, By noon the clouds were rifted and the sun shone on at least two thousand persons busily engaged in masticating barbeeued beel, mutton and pork, and other excellent edibles. All ate to satiety. The subjects discussed during the day were the contemplated railroad from here to Abany and local politics. The latter topic was uppermost in the minds of the masses. A pleasant feature of the day was the match game of baseball between the Eufaula and Albany clubs. Each city sent over a brag nine and it seemed a pity that the game could not have been completed. During the third inning the pitcher of the Albany club became offended for some reason, and refused to play any longer.

This terralnated the game, and notwithstanding he fact that the Albany boys were much ahead on the score, the unpire, Mr. O. D. Clay Talbott, of Florida, had to give the game to the Enfaula club, by a score of nine to nothing, in accordance with the rules of the game, under such circumstances.

VELVFTEENS...-This season so far has proved conclusively that the style, beauty, and artistic ratue of velvets and velveteens a e at last beginning to be appreciated here. We are perceiving that of all dress materials these are the most becoming, as well as the most stylish. Those who know prelict a still greater demand for these goods next year than we have witnessed this year.—Bazar, Janary, 1884.

FASHION'S CHANGES,...There is an old saying that "Fashion is fickle." but the increased mand for velvets and velveteens must be the exception that proves the rule, for the ruge for these ods commenced about three years ago, and has been on the increase up to the present time, promise even a greater increase the coming season.—Peterson's Mag., January, 1884.

It is doubtful whether a convention of the democratic party ever performed its work and adjourned with more hopeful assurances of victory than that which met in Chicago last week for the purpose of placing a presidential ticket in nomination. It was, in the truest sense of the word, a representative convention. Republican editors who were on the ground admit that a more intelligent convention, or one more thoroughly representative of the people, never assembled in this country.

Its proceedings were marked by the grave deliberation that should be characteristic of such an important body. The discussions of the various questions that arose in the convention were altogether lacking in that undignified tone that is frequently a feature of such gatherings, it was noticeable, also, that the convention seemed to realize the fact that the people are tired of 'the mere surface | questions of politics, demanding the con- aid in beating Mr. Blaine. sideration of the more substantial and vital issues which concern their real warfare.

The ticket nominated by the convention es one which commends itself to the hearty support of every democrat in the land; not only this, it commends itself to the favoracountry who understands the rela tion of the people. The ticket will also and Mr. Kelly. commend itself to the support of those republicans who are not satisfied with the record of the candidate of their own party. It may be said-and truly said-that the political record of Mr. Blaine is no worse than the records of any of the men of that party who have pushed republicanism to its practical results. This is one fact that gives us hope; for if the revolt against Mr. Blaine. which has assumed considerable importance in quarters where really honest and sincere people have been in the habit of following after the machine-if the revolt against Mr. Blaine means anything, it means a revolt against the methods which made the nomination of Mr. Blaine possible. The organs have suddenly found out that Mr. George William Curtis and the large contingent of independents and reformers that sympathizes with him are worse than democrats, and they are subjected to abuse that is not likely to be forgiven.

the purposes of the republican independents and reformers. They will support Cleveland and Hendricks, and before the campaign draws to a victorious close we shall expect to see them emphasizing their support with the zeal that is so becoming to converts. But the democratic ticket was not nominated for the purpose of meeting the views of any class or contingent. It was put forth to meet the views of the whole country, and we believe draws to a victorious close we shall expect to views of the whole country, and we believe Cleveland." the result will show the wisdom of the convention. It is a ticket which no honest man, from the republican nominee. He wears no plumes and is not tattooed. It appeals not only to the sentimental views of the people, but to that strong desire for redress and reform which has been gathering volume since the occurrences of 1876. It the famous "Father" Cleveland, at one time for appeals to the sense of justice, economy and many years city missionary of Boston. safety that is strong in every intelligent American's breast, and commends itself both to a reporter: "I am a republican, but I regard to the conservatism and patriotism of every citizen that understands the theory and Party."

His political enemies say he Jersey has placed the price of a marriage license at is not a "brilliant" man. This means simply that he is not a cheap rhetorician, nor one who poses before the public, "splurging," as "In the selection of Mr. Cleveland as their leader the saying is, so as to win the applause of the the democrats have, I believe, selected one of their pied the white house; somehow or other, the Few brilliant men have occupeople, whose instincts are active, whatever | THERE are twelve vacancies in the list of their notions may be, have seemed to avoid second lieutenants of the army after all of the re-

'brilliant" men in choosing their rulers. It may be true that Mr. Cleveland is not brilliant, but in all those homely qualities that commend themselves to the approval of honest men, such as prudence, sagacity, courage and a strong purpose to lift the administration of public affairs from the depths of corruption, where they have been forced by irresponsible republican officeholders, to the level of honesty and economy -in all those qualities that have a definite place in the understanding and approval of men, no man can say that the democratic nominee is lacking.

Like Mr. Tilden, he is a reformer, and he appeals to precisely the same element in all sections of the country that chose Mr. Tilden president in 1876. As governor of New York, he has followed his duty wherever it led him. He has made enemies among men in his own party by a strict adherence to what he coneived to be his duty, and in showing that he felt himself to be governor of the whole state, he has offended rings and claquers; but, as we have already said, his record commends him to the support of every honest man who has an interest in honest government.

Mr. Hendricks, who has been nominated for the second place, is one of the purest citizens of the republic. He is popular in the east as he is in the west, as popular in the north as he is in the south. His nomination was a happy impulse. His name gives to the ticket a sayor of 1876, and will remind honest men in every part of the country that a great wrong against the people is still to be redressed. Mr. Hendricks has already opened the campaign, and the vigor and fire of his utterances at Indianapolis will give the cue to an aggressive canvass by democrats everywhere. The ticket will win. Success is in the air.

Mr. DANA will please tighten up his sus penders and fall in. Perhaps he may be made the captain of his contingent.

choice made at Chicago last month will find no difficulty in voting for him, since he is one of the best representatives now to be found in public life of those administrative principles and reforms to which they are committed. A democrat who has made enemies of the disreputable elements of his own party is not greatly to be feared by republicans, even when he is a candidate for the presidency. The Times will heartly support Governor Cleveland. In opposing Mr. Blaine it finds itself already upon impregnable grounds and in excellent company. It has closely watched the career of the candidate nominated at Chicago cently graduated cadets have been assigned, and the president will fill them by appointments from civil life as soon as congress adjourns.

The Boston Advertiser claims that at least be.

In nominating Governor Cleveland for president the democratic party has displayed the wisdom of its opportunity, as the republican party, in of its desires. There are corrupt and dangerous elements in both parties. In the republican party they have at last prevailed. In the democratic they have been besten down. The republican party is led by its tail, the democratic party by the head.

From the Springfield Republican, ind. rep. The nomination of this ticket gives the dem racy an even chance of carrying the country. They have sound candidates upon a good platform. They will have to contend with more or less defection to Butler and Kelly, but the total absence of real grievances on the part of the latter and th rospect of success, if harmony prevails, will tend to solidify the party vote in New York. On the other hand, the independent vote which the nomination of Blaine has turned from the republican ticket will be cast for Cleveland. The Independents will put up no third candidate but will heartilysupport Cleveland and Hendricks.

From the Chicago Times, ind. The whigs asked in 1844, "Who is James K olk?" Yet Polk had been speaker of the house Before his elevation to the station of a provincial governor by a phenomenal majority, Cleveland had been mayor of Buffalo. In 1860 Lincoln was known only as the man who had made a brilliant canvass in Illinois against Douglas, wherefore it was said Douglas, had made him president. Cleveland is best known as the man who beat the selected candidate and whole power of the Washington government in a canvass for governor for New York.

From the New York Evening Telegram, ind. All that malignity and vituperation could bring to bear against the nomination of Governor Cleve-and was employed by Tammany in just the same manner as that notorious organization did with Tilden eight years ago. The result was the same in both instances. All respectable citizens will re-joice at the ignominious defeat of Kelly and his coyotes, not forgetting the political guerrilla, Ben Butler.

From the Philadelphia Times, ind.

Let none misunderstand the issue of the great conflict that is upon us. It involves a sweeping political revolution, not merely the transfer of ower from one political party to another, but th power from one political party to another, but the revolutionary overthrow of the worst methods and purposes of both parties, and the triumph of the best inspirations of every political faith. It is not so sure whether there shall be a republicau or a democratic president, nor is it a struggle to make James G. Blaine or Grover Cleveland the chief magistrate of the republic. A revolution has dawned upon both parties, and it has been born of supreme necessity. The conflict will be one of the most violent and exhaustive of our political history. The republicans have their ablest leader. His undiscovered resources are vast and will be employed in desperation. His party has boundless means of political on. His party has boundless means of political urfare, and they will be summoned to the utterset. There will be money for the venal, honors the ambitious, plunder for the thieves, proms for the weak and flattery for fools, but the ry desperation of the strife will multiply and stallize the forces of reform, and only some mumental democratic folly can hinder the electron of Grover Cleveland.

HOW TO PREVENT CHOLERA. Memorandum Issued by the State Board of Health.

The New York state board of health considers he possibily and facilities for the introduction of olera into this country too obvious to be disregarded, and therefore a memorandum on pretive measures against the disease has been issued. The history of former invasions of cholera, says the board, warrants the belief that its reappearace here is probable. Cholera, which in two months of midsummer in 1865 destroyed 80,months of midsummer in 1889 destroyed 80,000 lives in Egypt, reached France and Germany by September, and was discovered at the New York, quarantine as early as November. In the spring of 1866 it again threatened the United States. It lingered in the west, was returned to Governor's island, and thence found a new departure in 1867, when it was terribly destructive in some sections. The outbreak in the orted in southern Europe presents the same attening aspects, thinks the board, as it did in ust, 1865, when it was conveyed to one should defin:

fact that his wife is descending to the low arena of politics. He says she is a bolter, and won't let him in after 10 o'clock at night.

The snow on the mountains contiguous to the Yosemite lies six or seven feet deeper than is usual at this season, but the valley has the freshness of spring.

The use of the editorial "we" still largely prevails, as will be seen from a remark in a Tennessee paper: "If we escape the hog cholera this season there will be a large surplus of pork this winter." Pray, what is the avoirdupols of the editor?

A LAWYER at Portland, Oregon, has sued the mayor of that place for the recovery of a bill thus itemized: For writing a letter which Chapman published over his own signature in defense of charges of bribery, $100; for legal advice during an investigation by the council, $250; for writing the mayor's annual message, $100, and for assisting the mayor to secure a $1,500 loan, $50.

g for the fatal operation of the poison. For cholera to be diffused from continent to continent it must have as factors for its cultivation a centre of pollution for its cradle, a ship for its transport, and a number of towns prepared for its reception and development. Local conditions of danger—the sanitary neglects that have prepared for a lodgment and repropagation of the cholera in filthy places and sodden grounds—are found in every port, city and village, and in many rural hamlets. The prevention of propagation is very difficult after the disease has obtained a foothold in any of the commercial centres. The presence of fifth, stagnant pools, polluted water, and badly housed and imprudent people will invite cholera to hundreds of places in the state if it once appears. In any port, "Now," says the bonel, "before the exotic infection has come, let all local boards of health and all householders, lose no time in enforcing such thorough seavenging and cleansing, such cleaning of sewers, drains and ditches, and such ventilating, drying, lime-washing and disinfecting of cellars and all damp and unclean places that it colera comes its infective gerns shall find no soil or foul surface in which to propagate epidemically."

no soil or foul surface in which to propagate epidemically."
The contagion is not chiefly taken from the bodies of the sick, but the virus is proved to require the concurrence of attendant conditions of moisture and filth to produce any extended series of cases. One great source of danger is that the exotic germinal matter becomes not only infective of persons exposed to it by water or the atmosphere, but may, by its infinite rapidity of reproduction, under favoring conditions of foul air and filth, rapidly become epidemic within the limits of such impurity. Sanitary barriers must, therefore, be receted before cholera comes. The women looked] into each others eyes for an instant, and then there was a rush and Mrs. Langtry was forced backward, and before she had time to cry out she fell against the balustrade in the kitchen scene in "May Blossoms." The balustrade broke and Mrs. Langtry fell to the floor. She was quitekly on her feet again and said she was quite satisfied. Meeting a friend at the theater exit she exhibited her torn dress, ripped across the back and on the sleeve. "I've been with that girl just two seconds," she said, laughing.

platform orators of the Baptist denomination. He has dark hair and eyes, is cleanly shaven and resembles pictures of the poet Schiller. He has an excellent voice and withal the impression he made was exceedingly favorable. The following is a SYNOPISIS OF THE SERMON.

Said Dr. Hawthorne:
God writes upon human hearts not a creed; not a confession of faith; not "The Longer" or "The Shorter Catechism," nor "The Thirty-nine Articles," but Christ—His temper, His holiness, His meckness, His patience, His mercy and His contage. What he writes upon the heart shines out apon the world through the life of the Christian HI wish to get the truest conception of the character of Thomas Carlisle I do not read what others have written about him, but his own wittings, and especially his own letters. There I see the heart of that great, flerce, unsparing, merciles critic as I see it nowhere else. Jesus Christ left no letters written by His own hand. He did not write His mind, on tables of stone or on sheets of parchment, he wrote it upon human hearts and human lives, "Ye are our epistles." When He would let the world know what He is he points to his true followers—those who have been transformed by the power of his grace. Eyery true Christian is a rev "Ye are our epistles." When He would let the world know what He is he points to his true followers—those who have been transformed by the power of his grace. Every true Christian is a revelation of the invisible Christ. A man may sing paims, make long prayers, come to the communion table and protest undying fealty to the faith once delivered to the saints, but it he be decetiful and dishonest, corrupt in business and unclean in politics. Christ is not revealed in him.

What God writes will endure. We talk about writing lessons of virtue upon the hearts of out whiting lessons of virtue upon the hearts of out children that will abide with their through life. It is a beautiful sentiment air we love to cherish it, but experience teaches in that the majority of men either forget or cease to regard the truths, which in childhood they received from their parents. Every impression made by mere human wisdom or skill is perishable. No writting out a human spirit is durable ineffacable, eternal save that which is done by the spirit of the living God. In conversion we past through God's furnace where he burns into ou very soul the image of himself.

God has his instruments. In the case of thes Corinthian Christians, the instruments were the Apostle Paul and his fellow-laborers in the gospa minestry. The Christian minister is the pewhich God uses to write the living and imperishable epistle. The Ethioplan treasurer found the savior and confessed Him, but not until Philip, the preacher, expounded to him a certain scriptur in which the sufferings and death of that Savio were forefold.

Upon this mission I come among you. Great God!

how unspeakable the favor which thou has confered upon me in calling me to stand between the living and the dead—in making me a channel through which the light of life may flow from heaven to earth and turn man's noon of night into noon of day! I sometimes hear the children sing:

"I want to be an angel,
And with the angels stand,
A crown upon my forchead,
A harp within my hand."

But while it is my privilege to proclaim this message which reveals God to man and man to himself, which transforms the human heart and makes earth's lepers and harlots and outcasts fit to be pillars in the temple of glory, I do not want to be an gugel, and with the angels stand. I prefer to stand down here amid the fogs and damps and miasmas and darkness and proclaim liberty to earth's captives.

What God writes upon human hearts is "read and known of all men." These living epistles are exposed to public view. They walk about upon your streets and mingle with the multitudes in your market places. You who profess Christianity are read by the enemies of Christ. As you sit here to-day in the sanctuary of prayer they read you They look into your faces to see the motives de-

The wife of Mr. A. Johnston, residing near Watters's mill, while walking beside a branch, running through her husband's place, last Friday, stepped on a rattlesnake of the large diamond specie, so dreaded for its venomous bite. The snake struck backward at the lady's foot at the joint. Her cry of alarm brought Mr. Johnston promptly to the spot and the snake was killed. Mrs. Johnston hurried to the house and pulled off her shoe and found her foot rapidly swelling. Mr. Johnston corded her leg to stop the circulation of blood to the foot, and gave her a drink of strong whisky and a dose of salts. He then applied a strong lotion of coperas and tobacco to the wound, and afterward a poultice of wild touch-me-not. Eight hours later stepped on a rattlesnake of the large bacco to the wound, and afterward a pota-tice of wild touch-me-not. Eight hours later the foot and leg were both swelling, and Mr. Johnston applied a poultice of raw polk root. This had the desired effect, and in two hours the swelling commenced going down. The entire force at the university turned out and made every exer-tion to conquer the flames. Water was passed along a line of students formed from the well to the burning building, but the material of which the building was constructed was so inflammable that the entire distruction was the work of a short time. The fire department was notified of the burning by telephone, but the distance was so great that no effort was made to reach the The menu is unsurpassed, the hotel delightfully clean, cool and comfortable.

THE MARKHAM HOUSE BLAZE.
Sunday afternoon the burning of a mosquito net in room 12 at the Markham house created net in room 12 at the Markham house created some excitement. The room is located on the south side of the building and the brilliant flame made by the burning net was seen for quite a distance. The firemen at No. 2 engine house observed it, and thinking that the entire building was in danger, hurriedly made ready to respond to the tap of the bell, but no alarm was given, as the fire subsided as soon as the flimsy net was destroyed. The net caught from the gas jet. The fire was out before many persons in the house knew anything of it, consequently there was no excitement. The loss amounts nothing.

CHLOROFORMING A CAT.

How a Kind-Hearted Matron Gave a Kitten Its Exodus. A family residing on Collins street near the extreme limit of the street, has a fine cat which is now feeding a large nest of beautiful kittens. Last Saturday a servant stepped on one of the kittens, breaking a fore leg in three or four places. The kitten suffered greatly and its cries of pain were distressing. The lady of the house decided that the kitten's death would be an act of humany, but for death would be an act of humanky, but for awhile she was at a loss to decide how to ac-complish that death with the least pain. Fi-nally she decided to try chloroform, but it re-

SENT TO THE S. S. S. CO. THE reports from the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) in the treatment of Cancer continue to be onderful. There seems to be no doubt that it is a ositive specific for Skin Cancer or Epithelioma.

A CANCER FOR TWENTY YEARS.

"For twenty years I suffered from a Cance y neck. Patent Potash and Mercury Mixti d instead of curing the Cancer. I lost the u ed instead of curing the Cancer. I lost the use or ny arms and the upper part of my body. My general health was proken down, and my life was depaired of. S. S. S. cured me sound and well. This new lease of life it gave to me cannot be measured by any monetary value. I owe my life and the support of my family to Swift's Specific."

W. R. ROBISON, Davisboro, Ga.

HOPES TO BE CURED.

"Mr. Brooks, near Albany, was hopelessly afflicted with Cancer. It had eaten through his nose into his mouth and throat. The time of his death was only a question of a very short time. He prayed for death, his suffering was so great. S. S. S. has had a wonderful effect on him. His improvement is so great that we all feel sure of his being perfectly cured in time.

Grain and Produce.

By telegraph to The Constitution, CHICAGO, July 14—On 'change the markets were dull, grain closing about 'ge lower. Wheat and corn were stronger early on receipt of reports of a firmer narket at Liverpool, but soon sagged with moderate trading. St. Lonis telegrapes said to pts of new winter wheat there exceeded 100,000 bushels, and local receipts of grain were fair. These reports helped to cause weakness, and there was little demand from the shorts, they having covered so freely last week. Outside orders were also scarce, and speculative trading was chiefly ong local traders. The markets fell off slowly and recovered a little at the close, it being reported that vessel room had been engaged for a considerable quantity of wheat. Cash No. 2 wheat sold at 8134c and No. 3 at 70c; No. 2 red winter sold for August delivery at 871/2c, and 88c was bid for it afterwards. Cash No. 2 corn was sold at 50%@50%c; high mixed at 54c and rejected at 43%@45c. Sam-

Provisions were quiet, trading being confined chiefly to September lard. Armour sold 500 bbls of August pork at $23.00, an advance of 50c 7 bbl

Administratorship—The Receiver Fails to Get More Than a Moiety of the Fund,

The public is yet to hear more and startling details concerning the famous estate of Joh Broad, the deceased saloon keeper, about which already so many columns have been printed. The mystery of the last will has never been satisfactorily solved, and the perplexing questions growing out of the alleged bogus will were only gotten over by means of a compromise between the contesting pa ties.

Then came the sale of the valuable real estate of the deceased, which was put up at auction by Mr. John L. Conley, the administrator, and realized something over $37,000. The sale took place some three months ago, and the greater part of the above amount, believed to be upwards of $20,000, was paid to the administrator in cash.

Yesterday afternoon a young negro man went to Mr. J. L. Solomon's residence, 67 Cone, and rang the door bell. Mrs. Solomon responded and as she opened the door, the boy informed her that Mr. Solomon asked the boy if he had brought an order for the pistol, but this implied doubt as to his honesty caused the boy to manifest great indignation. As he started to leave, Mrs. Solomon's daughter suggested that her father probably had sent the boy and he was called back and given the pistol. There are at the Markham two young people who have had a most romantic courtship and marriage, and, it is to be hoped, they will realize in their new state all the bliss that their fancy has painted.

They are Mr. P. J. S. Montgomery, of Social Circle, and his lovely bride nee Miss Ruth Norma Lacy, daughter of Mrs. S. C. Lacy, of Vermejo, New Mexico.

Mr. Montgomery is a prominent young business man of Social Circle, who learned of the charms of the fair westerner through a relative of the young lady. A letter of introduction was secured little more than a year ago, which Mr. Montgomery forwarded. A correspondence ensued, which resulted in the young Georgian taking a three thousand mile trip to the mountains and plains of the territory a few months ago. After the traveling across a plain for some distance his journey ended at the foot of a chain of the most rugged and picturesque mountains for which that lovely country is far famed. Mr. Smith agreed with the assemblage, and made an argument in favor of a protective tariff. Resolutions were adopted stating that in appealing to the people for their continued support, the republican party referred to its record for the past twenty-four years; that it was organized as a party of free soil and free was organized as a protest against slavery and was organized as a party of free some speech, and as a protest against slavery as speech, and as a bound and pledged to mainta as such it was bound and pledged to mainta as such it was bound and pledged to mainta the civil and political rights of the freedm. The resolutions also reiterated the services the party in reducing war to and the national debt, stated that the resul the party in and the national debt, stated that the resumption of specie payments had furnished the people with sound and stable currency, and that within twenty years after the war, the treasury was overflowing, and the nation's credit unprecedented, and declared that in all that pertained to the welfare of the people the party had shown itself to be progressive and the champions of law and order; that the republican party of to-day was the same as that of other years in its devotion to principle and its prompt response to the demands of the country. The resolutions alse

Wall Street's Indorsement. New York, July 15.—The nominations tinued to engross about as much attention Wall street yesterday as business affairs, the fact that it was a dull day on 'cha made polities the more interesting. A Friday, the most striking fact was the ind-ment which Governor Cleveland received ment which Governor Cleveland received for republicans.

"I am a republican," said President O. Baldwin, of the Fourth National bank, "but am very much pleased with the nomination Cleveland, and shall most certainly supped him. I think he will be elected. His course governor of this state has been thorough satisfactory and I am confident that if he elected president he will do his duty and it disappoint the country."

Mr. George Montague, president of the Seenth Ward National bank, is another who halways voted the republican ticket, but wintends to vote for Cleveland. "I think ha safer man than Blaine," said Mr. Montag. "Mr. Cleveland is prudent and consertive," said Mr. William A. Camp, manager the clearing house. "The business men the country can safely trust the presidency his hands. He has made a good governor a he will make a good president."

he will make a good president."

"I shall surely vote for Cleveland and Hedricks," said Mr. Percy R. Pyne, president the City bank. "No better nomination cou the City bank. "No better nomination cou have been made." President R. L. Edwards, of the Bank of t state of New York, also expressed great sat faction with the demogratic candidates, and did Mr. Edmund D. Randolph, president of ontinental bank.

President W. P. St. John, of the Merca

Continental bank.

President W. P. St. John, of the Mercant bank, was delighted with the nomination Governor Cleveland. "It is," said he, masterly nomination. It has struck eve thing and covered everything; and I the Governor Cleveland will be the next preside of the United States."

President Thomas W. Evans, of the W. Street National bank, remarked: "It is very best ticket the democrats could he brought out."

President N. F. Palmer, of the Leather M. ufacturers' bank, said: "It am satisfied Governor Cleveland is the best man the decrats could have nominated. I have not decided, but I may vote for him. I am independent, but I am very much plea with this nomination, and very much dispointed with the nomination of Mr. Blain President Rocholl, of the German-Ameribank, said he thought the nomination of Gernor Cleveland was a very good one—indet the best the democrats could have made.

Cashier Pollock, of the St. Nicholas basid that all the officers of that institution wrepublicans and would, of course, support nominees of that party, but he thought Cleveland was the very best man the decrats could have nominated.

President Nathaniel Niles, of the Tramen's National bank, spoke thoughtin after some consideration, and said: "It the Cleveland's nomination is the best nomina
